Fig. 6 Abstract graph convolution architecture. In the current implementation, only the final atom features are used to generate molecule-level features